The Internship From Hell

It all started when Shalyssa, a junior at Montclair State University, accidentally volunteered for an unpaid summer internship with Dr. Smith. The first job? Transporting a breadstick from the student senter to Starbucks without exploding, panicking, or tweeting about it.

Easy, right?

Things escalated quickly. First, Shalyssa had to cartwheel past security guards working for a secret organization called W.T.F. Next, they had to navigate a crusty maze and 22 giant barns.

After, they had to fight a family of wild raccoons that were desperatley after the breadstick.

In a moment of panic, Shalyssa let out a loud "Yehaw," which awakened the final boss: Archibald, the department chair who once tried to ban pizza on campus. The only weapon available? A half-eaten charcuterie board Shalyssa "borrowed" from the student lounge.

Nobody knows exactly what happened after that. A resignation letter was found on Archibald's desk the next morning. But the internship credit? Totally approved.

It was 8:03 a.m. when John walked into class holding a fish tank, already dreading another day of history.

The plan was simple: sit quietly, fly through first period, and avoid making eye contact with anyone. That plan died instantly when a rogue paper airplane smacked John directly in the nose.

Enter the substitute teacher Mr. Chester, who looked like he hadn't slept since 2003 and smelled faintly of expired yogurt. He wore a colorful vest and immediately demanded everyone talk in silence.

Things got out of hand when someone noticed a capybara running down the hallway. Everyone immediately got out of their seats and rushed to the door to see what was going on.

They saw Justin Timberlake chasing the capybara down the hallway and trying to calm it down using interpretive dance.

John decided to grab some lasagna from Mr. Chester's lunchbox and feed it to the capybara, which calmed it down enough to be captured. The sub quit exactly 14 minutes after, and John became known as the capybara whisperer.

The screenshot shows the same web browser window, but the address bar now displays "127.0.0.1:5000/generate_story". The page title remains "Error 404: Planet Not Found". The generated story text is displayed in a monospaced font:

Captain Jeremy stared at the blinking lights on the control panel of the stazcruiser "Oblivion Taco", unsure whether to panic or just reboot everything. Simon, their emotional-support droid, just accidentally spilled Hot sauce all over the warp core.

"Status update?" the Captain barked.

"We appear to be hurtling at 140% velocity toward the edge of the Milky Way," beeped the droid cheerfully. "Also, I may have downloaded an update from a sketchy site."

Suddenly, an alert! The control panel was flashing with a transmission from the spiky blobfish alien species which read: "Surrender or prepare to be glitter bombed."

"Code Pineapple!" the Captain shouted. "I repeat, code Pineapple!"

All the lights in the ship turned hot pink. Startships by Nicki Minaj started to play on full volume as a disco ball dropped from the ceiling. Amidst the chaos, the artificial gravity generator short circuited.

Captain Jeremy watched helplessly as Simon giggled uncontrollably while doing the salsa in zero gravity. After one minute, they crash landed on a donut-shaped moon, and Captain Jeremy decided maybe retirement wasn't such a bad idea.
